

Seeing through Dark Glasses

Reading the arguments for women's ordination, I wonder if it occurs to those who make them that the same arguments lead to acceptance of Gay Marriage. Reading the arguments for the autonomy of Dioceses in TEC, I wonder if it occurs to those who make them that the same arguments support the autonomy of local churches,

I have just posted an argument on this website in favor of Infant Baptism. I know Believers in Christ, in ages past, have been executed for rejecting Infant Baptism and insisting that Believer Baptism is the only true Baptism.

A Pastor I admire for many things (James White) is a strong proponent for regional mega churches. His own has the goal of 20,000 members by the year 2020; yet I believe that a local community church of no more than 300 is far more Scriptural.

Truly, we see through a glass darkly, but we must walk according to the Light we have and trust the Judge of all the earth to do the right thing by all of us. A lot of grace among us always helps, too.
